Graduation Fashion Show 2014 University of Moratuwa

The Bachelor of Design Degree in Fashion Design & Product Development is celebrating the work of its' eighth graduating batch of students. The University of Moratuwa, Department of Textile and Clothing Technology welcomes you to the Galadari Hotel, Colombo this evening where the final year students of the Fashion Design and Product Development Degree present their catwalk collections, 2014.

Each collection is based upon indepth research that begins with a strategic proposal to identify a particular designer label and market segment. The outcome of research leads to a brand new idea of wearable outfit by solving problems related to manufacturing, pattern and design development to achieve the final collection.

Each collection comprises of six complete brand new outfits developed during the final year of the degree. This catalogue showcases the work of thirty nine students. These students come from many parts of Sri Lanka and have all been working very hard to make tonight's event a very special occasion. Tonight you have the opportunity to see eighteen collections on the catwalk. We wish all the students of the 2014 batch great success in their future and the future growth of Sri Lankan apparel industry in the world market.

It is our pleasure to welcome the many guests of honour from both Sri Lanka and overseas, all here to celebrate, judge and report on this exciting and momentous occasion.

Our judges this evening are:

Rebecca Ward Peter Katz Priyantha Fernando

Designer: Nethmini Senanada Concept: FLAMBOYANCE Graduation Fashion Show of the University of Moratuwa has now become an annual glamorous event of the University and a congregation of many players of the apparel industry.

After identifying the need for value addition in the apparel industry to sustain the competitive advantage globally, the Ministry of Textile Industry Development together with the Joint Apparel Association Forum (JAAF) and the Department of Textile and Clothing Technology commenced this Bachelor of Design in Fashion Design and Product Development degree program in 2001 with the support of the London College of Fashion to fill a void in the apparel industry in Sri Lanka. With the introduction of this course we believe that the University of Moratuwa has become a significant player in the value chain of the apparel industry.

With the vision of the University of Moratuwa to be the most globally recognized knowledge enterprise in South Asia, we strive to produce world class and highly employable graduates in an environment that provides a rewarding experience for our students and staff while meeting educational needs of the industry. The Gradation Fashion Show 2014 is yet another successful outcome of these efforts.

With the maturity and experience of our highly qualified staff and talents of our students I believe that this fashion show provides ample evidence to show that our graduates are creative, innovative, entrepreneurial and world class. I take this opportunity to congratulate the graduating students for the outstanding achievements and appreciate the efforts of all contributors for their commitment to produce these high quality graduates. I wish the Fashion Show 2014 a great success.

THE LOT

UOM and TJ : Strengthening Partnerships..Enhancing Skills

It gives me an immense pleasure to share some thoughts on the occasion of the "Graduation Fashion Show 2014" and let me at the outset congratulate those of you who are graduating from one of the finest Universities in Sri Lanka.

Textured Jersey Lanka PLC decided to be the main sponsor for the show and we are proud to be associated with this important event and witness the University unleashing yet another batch of young, talented, Innovative Designers into the country.

Over the years Textured Jersey has been able to establish and enhance a close connection with the Department of Textile and Clothing Technology, University of Moratuwa. In the context of the industry, Fashion Design and Product Development graduates have contributed immensely to the local apparel manufacturers, and helped the industry to shift from a 'Cut and Sew' supplier to a 'Total Solution Provider'.

Further, we are pleased to announce that we have entered into a MOU with the Department of Textile and Clothing Technology in order to strengthen our ties and to assist young design talent to enhance their professional skills and knowledge, and master their creativity within the real world environment.

Our collaboration will support the students in shaping up their future with professional guidance and business exposure. This will benefit the country by bringing out the Innovation and Entrepreneurial aspects of these young graduates. Textured Jersey Lanka PLC, itself has embarked a journey of innovation and value addition as the key to the future and institutes like University of Moratuwa will certainly make our journey expedient. Already we have become a much sought after vendor for several global brands through our Innovations, and we will continue to help position the Sri Lankan fabric industry in a different light.

Finally, I would like to place on record my appreciation to the staff and students as well as other stakeholders of "Graduation Fashion Show 2014" for their commitment in enhancing Fashion Design in Sri Lanka and wish the design graduates success in their future endeavours. I also take the opportunity to extend my best wishes to all participants for the show and the winners who would definitely contribute a wealth of knowledge and talent to the industry. We look forward to a continuing and fruitful relationship with the University through our MOU and other partnerships.

About the Fashion Design & Product Development Degree Programme

This is one of the degree courses administered by the University Grants Commission, Sri Lanka. Entry to this course is administered by the UGC and the eligibility requirements are published in the UGC Handbook. The minimum requirement to be admitted to this course is Good GCE A Level results coupled with a flair for creativity and a commercial eye for Design.

The University of Moratuwa holds an Aptitude Test in an attempt to evaluate the creative thinking abilities of the applicants. Thereafter the selection of candidates is carried out by the UGC by the prevalent University selection method.

Once the selection criteria are met, 40 places on the course are offered which makes up the annual intake to this degree programme. Currently, two pathways are offered in Textiles and Fashion. Tuition Fees are not charged but the course is usually termed as 'expensive' because it demands good quality materials, access to craft supplies and lifestyle & fashion magazines, shopping for experimentation, film going, visiting exhibitions and places of interest, trade shows and study tours.

This programme is ideal for those with a lively outgoing personality with good communication ability, a flair for doing new things, keenness and initiative to venture into a new world of activity and having curiosity of mind about the world around them and beyond.

At University the FOUR years are:

Introductory year - Foundation & Experimental Exploratory & Developmental year Industrial Placement - In industry under guidance Definitive - Final year preparation of Collections for the Fashion Show

Subjects included and incorporated to the programme throughout the four years are;

Visual Studies and Fashion Illustration, Fashion & Textile Design, Pattern Cutting, Grading, Pattern Production, Product Development & Garment Technology, Garment Construction, Fitting & Styling, Textile Technology, ICT, Cad-Cam, Photoshop, Illustrator, Flash and other design software, Introduction to the Fashion Business – Buying, Marketing, Merchandising, Production, Supply Chain, Sourcing and Global Strategies, Fashion Forecasting, Consumer Studies, Historical and Cultural Studies, English Language for communication, Personal Professional Development (PPD).

The course is delivered in the vocational mode where, the student takes on self study and experiments with own ideas and others under the instruction of the qualified staff.

After successful completion of the requirements of the Degree, the student is awarded a Bachelor of Design Honours Degree by the University of Moratuwa.

On completion of the course the student is expected to enter a broad range of Fashion industry related employment, self employment or pursue higher studies leading to postgraduate degrees.

In the industry, they are able to demonstrate a sound understanding of the Fashion industry, both Fashion Product and Process and deploy critical and analytical problem solving skills in relation to both aesthetic and commercial aspects of the Fashion and related product industry.

They are also able to demonstrate an ability to confidently articulate their ideas effectively through the use of visual, verbal and written media. Our graduates are readily employable by apparel manufacturers, design studios, Knitting fabric mills, Weaving mills, Product development facilities, merchandising, retail sector and the Handloom industry.

The Fashion Design Degree has produced more than 200 graduates most of whom are employed in the apparel export industry while a few entrepreneurs have set up their own businesses. Those successful launch their own Designer Label within a few years and support the branding efforts of Sri Lanka.
